NOTE:

Braid theory was invented in 1925 by Emil Artin and has developed semi independently of knot theory: We can think of a braid as a special type of knot diagram in which there are N equally spaced points connected via N strands to a second set of N points: A braid is an intertwining of some number of strings attached to top and bottom point bars such that each string never turns back up: In other words: The path of each string in a braid could be traced out by a falling object if acted upon only by gravity and horizontal forces: Groups of pure braids can be given an ordering which is invariant under multiplication on both sides: This ordering is defined algebraically using the Artin Combing Technique: The Combing Of Braids is a very pleasant mathematical endeavor even for one who does not particularly enjoy mathematics at all after they have taken methamphetamine (Called Benzedrine in 1950 and sold at a corner drug store by a benign pharmacist to students in flat heart shaped white pills called Hearts for 5 cents a Heart) for the first time at age 15 and sat up for 36 straight hours with ten very sharp University of Chicago college students (I was considered to be a hopeless dummy: My IQ was only 140:) to try to figure it out as our entire year's grade in Mathematics I was to be based on a small pamphlet handed out to us entitled The Theory Of Braids in a six hour comprehensive exam: When after 36 hours the understanding of how to algebraically comb braids flashed through my mind and the minds of my friends with a lightning power crunch of darkness to light mind slam: I received the deeply shocking understanding and the profound and liberating impression that given enough time and support I could figure out how to do all and everything: And in time I damn near did: I certainly learned how to get away with living a rich full life earning a fine living with my little finger helping friends live without in any way whatsoever having to take any kind of shit from anyone or any thing inside or outside or inbetween their Self in any way: Ever:
