

ENGL 214: Serious Games & Techno-Tragedies

Brian Ganter, Instructor | Fall 2013 | Capilano University

Course Calendar Course Blog Course Readings Course Games Moodle Course Bibliography Tech Support

Home » Course Blog » Nothing Jason Nelson

Nothing Jason Nelson

Dec 14, 2013 by haywarddaryl

The game by Jason Nelson titled Nothing You Have Done Deserves Such Praise is a very odd way to waste some time.

Although I initially enjoyed taking a trip into the mind of Jason Nelson, I quickly found myself bored and less amused. Don't get me wrong, I like the blowing up orange/sun like graphics and weird body part backgrounds but it all seemed a little repetitive to me. Jason Nelson is like that guy on the school bus who thinks he's really funny but is really just weird and eats dirt.

I get it. I think. Jason is trying to make me feel bad about being a gamer? Here is some fake praise for pressing keys on your keyboard you simpleton gamer. I played for longer than I should have, hoping that it would become a little funny, but no.

Yes, it is art. No, it is not amazing art.

Related Posts

Tags

Share This

SITES + JOURNALS

- › Cinema Journal
- › Critical Gaming Project @UW
- › Electronic Literature Collection \(Vol. 1 + 2\)
- › Eludamos
- › Game Studies
- › Gamasutra
- › Interactive Fiction Archive
- › Journal of Canadian Game Studies
- › Journal of Games Criticism
- › New Literary History
- › Vectors

Leave a Reply

You must be logged in to post a comment.